California Vegetable Specialties

California Vegetable Specialties, founded in 1987, is America's largest producer of both red and white endive, with both conventional and organic product lines. The company farms year round from its location in Rio Vista, California.

Endive belongs to the genus cichorium - the chicory family. Seeds are sown in the spring to produce a root by late fall. The roots are topped in the field, harvested and placed in cold storage. As needed throughout the year roots are removed from storage and planted in dark humid "forcing" rooms where the endive grows from the bud on top of the chicory root.
